Taral Rides Now or Never Well for a Place.

[SPECIAL to THE EVENING WORLD.] RIEZABETH HACE TRACK, Nov. 7.—The beau-tiful weather attracted a large crowd to the Elizabeth track this afternoon.

There were about ten thousand people present and they thoroughly enjoyed the sport. One of the ten thousand was Mr. Joseph Thompson, the wealthy Australian bookmaker, who proposes to establish a racing centre a Ban Francisco.

He was excerted around the place by Charlie Reed, and he seemed to be pleased at every-

The first event on the card to-day was a sixfuriong dash for two-year-old , and Michael, in the rare form he has shown, was installed favorite. A strong tip was given out on Peter, and with George Taylor in the saddle his chances certainly looked tempting. He was heavily backed from 5 down to 5 to 1.

Beansy, on the strength of his good win on the opening day, was a strong second choice. Mr. Thompson went out to the post with Mr. Caldwell to study the American method of starting. He had the satisfaction of seeing a good start, with Betty Frather in front.

Covington kept Michael well in hand until the stretch was, reached, and then he came away and won easily from Peter by a length and a half.

away and won easily from Peter by a length and a half, a Belwood and Major Domo were played in the second ruce as though there were nothing else in it. Both opened at 3 to 1 and were backed down to 3 to 5. More money went on Belwood than on any other, however, and the former closed actual favorite. Major Domo had a cake walk. Littlefield rook him out at the end of a quarter and led all the way. Taral brought Now or Never up on the final furlong with a ruch, but he could never reach Major Domo. The colored contingent came to the front in the intro race with a lead-pipe cinch in Mabel Gienn.

Glenn.
They backed her heavily and with such con-fidence that her price was little better than even money, and this with such ancedy milers as Happyter, Cousin Jeems and Chesapeake in the race.

Reporter was next in demand, with Chesapeaks a good third choice.

The good thing was dumped and the colored diwision went into the tureen.

Cousin Jeems traited along until the far form, when Taral sent him along and won somewhat handlily by a length from the favorite.

That disappointing rogue, Reporter, was third.

Perhaps Six United States Senators May Be Gained.

Kansas Will Drop Ingalls-The Alliance Carries South Dakota.

With the gain of a United States Senator each from New York, New Hampsbire, lilinois and Wisconsin, which the Democrats now seem almost certain to acquire, the minority in the upper House of the Fifty-second ity, and to secure this lead the Republicans would need the Senstors from all the new States which they so hastily admitted to the Union for this very purpose.

Yet the returns to-day, showing the Alliance victory in South Dakots, promise the defeat of Senator Moody there, and the election of s Farmers' Alliance man, who might safely be ounted upon to act with the Democrats. Latest returns this morning indicate that the Democrats will have a majority of two-with hope yet left for two more-on the joint ballot in the New York State Legislature. New Hampshire and Wisconsin will also have Democratic majorities on joint ballots, and in lilinois the chances continue to increase for the election of a Democrat to succeed Senator Farwell.

Connecticut's Legislature will probably have ten Republican majority on joint ballot.

The figures representing the political composition of the next House of Representatives stand to-day at $38 to $8 in favor of the Democrats, giving the latter a clear majority of 145.

In the saxta round not a single lead was made, but Gibbons kept on laughing.

In the seventh, Gibbons hed for Cushing's jaw and was cleverly countered on the body.

Up to this time it looked very much as though Cushing might take first money, and Jimmy Colvide sings out: "The best 500 Cushing wins." He succeeded in placing $170 of the amount.

Gibbons staggered, but Cushing failed to follow up the advantage.

Then Gibbons abandoned his simile and settled down for hard work.

In the twelfth and thirteenth rounds he kept pounding Cushing about the body, and the latter took his punishment gamely.

The two succeeding rounds were characterized by victous fighting by both, but Gibbons had a good lead in both.

The Jerseyman's right was planted with terrible force on Cushing's wind in the sixteenth, and in the next round be turned his aftention to Cushing's face, which he marred considerably. Wrong Placing of Race Horses at the Finish.

LITTLE INCIDENT.

Proposed Match Between Riley and De Muth.

liner-goers left the new Jersey Jockey Club grounds yesterday filled with a vague feeling of dissatisfaction and distrust at several things which happened during the day.

Race-course judges cannot be too careful in the placing of horses at the fluish. Thousands of collars are placed on the runners either to win, for a place, or to run one-two-three. It means severe financial loss to many to have horses placed wrong, jet in two races yesterday horses were misplaced where there seemed not the slightest excuse for doing so. Had the finishes been close, that is to say, three or four horses under the wire asmost head and head, there might have been come excuse for the judges. In the instances mentioned there appeared to the speciators to some excuse for the judges. In the instances mentioned there appeared to the spectators to be half-lengths separating the runners.

In the fourth race, to thousands of watching eyes, liub 8. Ensined third. He was a clear half length before Grade M., and yet the judges posted the latter's name for the initial horse.

In the sixth race the same thing nappened again. Manola won and Prince Roward was at rast a half length before Quotation. Prince Edward server wildly uniter publishment and mashed close under the judges noses, while Manola and Quotation hugged the inner rail, but the judges placed Quotation second and gave third place to Prince Edward. They protably did not see the latter until after the wire had been passed.

The public slone did not see these mistakes, keeps reporter at the track blaced Hub E, toltd in the fourth race and Prince Edward second in the susta race, and it is not likely that such men, experienced in calling finishes would all make the same mistake.

And these were not the only unpleasant happenings of the day. The running of several horses was open to standelon, and no questions were saked. Then, to cap everything, bets were declared off in the last race, simply because the shookmakers messenger had forgotten to announce that Raymond and telemound were scratched. Thus was not fair to the public, and it was all to the advantage of the bookmakers. The public should not be made to sinfer for the carelessness of the bookmakers. The public should not be made to sinfer for the carelessness of the bookmakers. The public should not be made to sinfer for the carelessness of the bookmakers. The public should not be made to sinfer for the carelessness of the bookmakers. The such more days like yearlerday will cause a wonderful falling-off in Apropos of the wrong placing of the borses, here is an instance. One of the reporters was constituted a committee to see the judges, and asked how suon mistokes happened. They of course denied that any mistakes had occurred. "All of the reporters place Hub S. third and Prince Edward second," and the reporter, turning to President Dwyer and speaking to him.

Mr. McDowell overheard the remark, and snapped out: "Then the judges had better resign and allow the reporters to do the judge-'I think the public would be satisfied," re-torted the reporter.
